Dundee, United Kingdom - Outplay Entertainment, a leading social and mobile game company, announced today that Monster Legacy, a new monster collecting and battling game, is now available on the App Store. In Monster Legacy, players explore secret dungeons, solve challenging puzzles, and capture hundreds of unique monsters to use for battle with friends and foes in this detailed and epic adventure.

"We're very pleased to offer a mobile game that is uniquely fun, with long-term playability," said Richard Hare, co-founder of Outplay Entertainment. "What makes Monster Legacy stand out from other games in the genre is the quality of the art style and focus on gameplay longevity, uncommon for most mobile games.

Outplay continues to deliver top-notch mobile game experiences on a non-intrusive, free-to-play business model and Monster Legacy is a fantastic example of the type of high-quality fun experience gamers can expect."

In Monster Legacy, players undertake a journey filled with captivating quests as they tackle tricky puzzles and explore cavernous dungeons throughout the massive world of Arborea. Players train a wide variety of Monsters to take into battle and use to free the land from the dark influence of the Evil Lord Ardur. Trained and captured Monsters can evolve into new forms and unlock powerful attacks. Gamers collect and learn in-game currency as they play, complete quests, and customize their character and Monster's habitat. A free-to-play adventure offering several hours of gameplay, Monster Legacy has unparalleled depth with more than 20 levels and 70 quests.
