

Kitty Code releases Hurricane 3.0 - Keeps Your Eye On The Storm

Published on 07/21/09

Kitty Code, LLC announced the availability of Hurricane 3.0, a hurricane and tropical storm tracker for the iPhone and iPod Touch. Hurricane introduces a whole new way to track tropical storm systems with a new highly detailed, zoomable map covering storms in both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. A dynamic information page for each storm provides you with satellite and radar imagery when available and the latest plots for active storms.

Orlando, Florida - Kitty Code, LLC announced the availability of Hurricane 3.0, a hurricane and tropical storm tracker for the iPhone and iPod Touch, in the iTunes App Store. Hurricane, the most popular and best selling hurricane tracker for the iPhone and iPod Touch, returns with a great update for the 2009 hurricane season.

Hurricane introduces a whole new way to track tropical storm systems with a new highly detailed, zoomable map covering storms in both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. A dynamic information page for each storm provides you with satellite and radar imagery when available and the latest plots for active storms.

"Hurricane 3.0 will bring information to those in a storm's path when they need it the most by providing the most comprehensive tropical data available on a mobile device", said Ilene Jones, Co-Founder and CEO of Kitty Code, LLC.

New features introduced in Hurricane 3.0 include:

- * The addition of the Eastern Pacific ocean tracking maps to the existing Atlantic tracking maps
- * Pacific historical tracking data has been added to provide past storm information in the Pacific
- * A new storm information page has been added to put important storm details such as storm specific satellite, radar, and forecast images and text at your finger tips
- * Fully zoomable tracking maps providing a greater level of detail
- * Integrated GPS to inform you of your distance from an approaching storm
- * Updated satellite images covering both the Atlantic and Pacific
- * An enhanced look that makes finding information easier than ever before
