

Teaching Alphabet and Spelling Strategy for Parents: Take a Nap

Published on 04/04/14

Virginia based Koloza LLC today announces Smart Kid ABC 1.0.5, the latest update to their popular educational family game for iPad. Smart Kid ABC is a fun, interactive, educational app that keeps your kids coming back for more. The software suite offers super awesome Alphabet, My Name, and Spelling modes that make letter recognition and spelling enjoyable experiences. New features added to the Smart Kid ABC app allows kids to learn the alphabet and spelling on autopilot.

Fairfax, Virginia - That's right, take a nap. Koloza's latest update to the kids app Smart Kid ABC, allows children to learn on autopilot without much intervention needed from mom or dad. The most anticipated feature of Smart Kid ABC is in the Spelling game that will enable toddlers, pre-schoolers, and Kindergartners to practice spelling any word in English, Spanish, and French. This is achieved by arranging the letters on the board and clicking the "Play" button to hear the word spoken back. If the word is misspelled, the misspelled sounds will be spoken back.

Koloza's developers are taking advantage of a new feature in iOS 7 called AVSpeechUtterance that allows you to perform text to speech capabilities.

The app also includes the Alphabet game that very cleverly uses shape recognition and auditory response features to expedite letter recognition. One toddler apparently learned the entire alphabet after playing the game for a couple of days. The app awards the completion of the Alphabet with various sticker packs that can be touched to produce cute and funny sounds. Kids love this feature.

As a bonus, a "My Name" game is also available in the app that allows little Johnny to arrange the letters of his name until the applause sound and effects are played signaling success.
