Fresno, CA USA - Redcort Software today released Virtual TimeClock '09 Basic Edition, an entry level addition to their award winning time clock software suite. Virtual TimeClock software helps businesses of every size easily manage their employee time and attendance. The brand new Basic Edition combines Virtual TimeClock's ease-of-use with a simplified feature set and low price especially attractive to small businesses with just a few employees.

"We hear from thriving small businesses and business startups every day" said Keith DeLong, founder and CEO of Redcort Software. "To stay competitive during this recession, they are looking for easy to use, value priced management tools. At our $79 introductory price, Virtual TimeClock Basic Edition is incredible employee time and attendance software that easily grows with a small business."

Blake Lingle, owner of Boise Fry Company (Burgers on the Side) in Boise, Idaho heartily agrees. "What attracted me most to Virtual TimeClock was the user interface and the ease of use. It didn't take much time or effort to show our employees how to use it." Blake continues, "We wanted a program that produced simple, easy to understand reports. We're a small restaurant, and we don't have much need for complicated reports. Virtual TimeClock has met and exceeded our expectations."

Virtual TimeClock Basic Edition has simplified features, making it very easy to use and manage. The Virtual TimeClock DNA is still present, meaning it's powerful and reliable software backed by Redcort Software's 20 years of time clock software experience. Virtual TimeClock Basic Edition is a perfect time and attendance software solution for businesses with up to three employees. As employees or time clock software needs increase, customers can easily and cost-effectively upgrade their time clocks to either Virtual TimeClock Pro or Virtual TimeClock Network Edition.
