Interactive Coconut announces Subtitles Viewer 1.1, an update to their movie utility for iOS. Subtitles Viewer allows the user to download subtitles/captions and then view them on their iOS device synchronized with television or movies on their TV, or at the cinema. The free app make use of the vast database of subtitles at OpenSubtitles, with subtitles available for downloading in over 20 languages. Version 1.1 introduces more languages and the ability to adjust text size in the player.

Melbourne, Australia - Interactive Coconut is proud to announce the release of Subtitles Viewer 1.1, an update to their movie utility for iPhone, iPad and iPod touch. Ever been to the movies in a foreign country and it's dubbed in the local language? Frustrating! Or how about the hearing impaired? A cinema experience can be impossible when no captioning is available. Subtitles Viewer works to solve this problem.

The app allows the user to download subtitles/captions and then view them on their iOS device synchronized with television or movies on their TV, or at the cinema. The free app make use of the vast database of subtitles at OpenSubtitles.org, with subtitles available for downloading in over 20 languages.

Subtitles Viewer is ideal for a number of situations, for example:

- * Travelling/living abroad - the cinema has audio in another language, and there are no subtitles
- * The hearing impaired can enjoy going to the cinema
- * Resolving arguments at home about which language the subtitles should be in

"I'm always really pleased to see an app that serves the handicapped, and Subtitles Viewer makes a strong contribution to this category of iOS owner." commented Mel Martin of TUAW. "It's also useful for people struggling with a new language and want to view movies and TV in their native language."

Version 1.1 of Subtitles Viewer introduced more languages and the ability to adjust text size in the player.

Device Requirements:

- * iPhone, iPad, and iPod touch
- * Requires iOS 7.1 or later
- * 9.6 MB
