

WaveMachine Labs announce 50%-off sale on both Drumagog and Auria

Published on 07/03/14

WaveMachine Labs has announced a 50%-off sale on two of their most popular music software titles: Drumagog, a real-time drum replacing plug-in for Mac and Windows, and Auria, a 48-track recording system for iPad. Drumagog is available for both Windows and Mac OS X systems in VST, AU, and AAX/RTAS plug-in formats. Auria is available for every model of the iPad running iOS 5.0 or later. This sale will run through Sunday, July 6, 2014, via the Drumagog web store and the Apple App Store.

Chicago, Illinois - WaveMachine Labs has announced a 50%-off sale on two of their most popular music software titles: Drumagog, a real-time drum replacing plug-in for Mac and Windows, and Auria, a 48-track recording system for iPad. This sale will run through Sunday, July 6, 2014, via the Drumagog web store and the Apple App Store.

Drumagog is a software plug-in which replaces acoustic drum tracks with a choice of other samples. But Drumagog also offers the "secret weapons" top mix engineers use to give hit records polish and power. It is this exclusive combination of replacement and enhancement tools that has made Drumagog the industry standard for more than a decade.

Auria is a 48-track digital recording system designed from the ground up for the iPad. With professional-level features like AAF import/export, optional third-party plugin support from names like PSPaudioware, FXpansion, and Fab Filter, plus the ability to play 48 mono or stereo 24bit/96 kHz tracks and record up to 24 of those tracks simultaneously (through a supported USB multi-channel audio interface), and also edit and mix with familiar tools and full mixer automation, Auria clearly sets the standard for mobile recording.

Drumagog is available for both Windows and Mac OS X systems in VST, AU, and AAX/RTAS plug-in formats, and in both 64 and 32-bit editions. Auria is available for every model of the iPad running iOS 5.0 or later.
