

Talking Dog Max - A Different Dog Breed for App Store Fans

Published on 08/15/14

Talking Dog Max by Peaksel DOO has finally reached Apple App Store after spreading laughter among Google Play Store fans. The game is now available for iPad, iPod and iPhone and is free to download. Max is a merry dog who takes great pleasure in talking back to his owners, repeating what they say in a funny voice. Players can pet, poke, slap Max or dress him up. This promotes creativity in children. Having played with Max once, it will be hard to prevent oneself from doing it again.

Nis, Serbia - Peaksel DOO has prepared another talking app for all Apple Store lovers. Talking Dog Max is a funny looking dog with a slight belly who will bark, growl, dance and talk to his owner. The game is now free to download to iPad, iPod and iPhone.

After conquering many hearts on Google Play Store, Talking Dog Max has become available on iTunes. Max is a merry dog who loves munching on bones, dancing to different tunes, growling and barking. However, he takes greatest pleasure in talking back to his owners, repeating what they say in a funny voice. As all the other talking apps by this developer, the game is easy to play, thus being suitable for little kids, teens and adults.

"Max is a pet which does not require much care. He is a happy little dog who loves being around people, especially when they want to talk. Having a puppy, but being able to take care of it only when we feel like doing so is what many kids could do, so we wanted to give this chance to our users," said Aleksandra Ivic, the project manager of the company.

Once they download the game, players can pet, poke, slap Max or dress him up for different occasions. The dress up feature encourages creativity with children. What is more, the game itself is a great pastime entertainment. Having played with Max once, it will be hard to prevent oneself from doing it again.
