

PixSteward Celebrates 2nd Anniversary with $2 Labor Day Weekend Sale

Published on 08/29/14

PixSteward, the premier Flickr backup, archive and database tool for Mac is celebrating its second anniversary with a "2 Years, 2 Dollars" Labor Day Weekend special sale. Between Aug. 29 and Sept. 2, both the full version of PixSteward, which supports multiple Flickr accounts, & the single-account version, called PixSteward Lite in the Mac App Store, will be on sale for $1.99. The app downloads pictures & metadata from a user's Flickr accounts & archives them in a relational database on the Mac.

Murfreesboro, Tennessee - PixSteward, the premier Flickr backup, archive and database tool for Mac is celebrating its second anniversary with a "2 Years, 2 Dollars" Labor Day Weekend special sale.

PixSteward, a Mac OS X app (requires Snow Leopard or later), is available in two versions. A full-feature, standard edition with support for multiple Flickr accounts and external drive storage, normally retails for $24.95 at PixSteward.com. A "Lite" version, only available on the Mac App Store, normally sells for $9.99. Between August 30 and Sept. 2, both versions will be on sale for just $1.99.

PixSteward downloads pictures and metadata from a user's Flickr accounts and archives them in a relational database on the Mac, allowing offline searches and image exporting.

With PixSteward you can:

- * Safely backup multiple Flickr photostreams, including metadata, to your Mac
- * Perform sophisticated searches - even when there's no Internet connection
- * Rapidly browse your picture archive and export original-size JPEGs, PNGs, and GIFs in bulk or individually
- * Export sets of pictures along with their metadata for use in other apps
- * Edit Flickr tags, titles, and descriptions, synced simultaneously between PixSteward and Flickr

A 7-minute video introduction to the app, "Up and Running with PixSteward" may be viewed at the PixSteward website.
