

One handed typing finally comes to iPhone 6 Plus - Type with one thumb

Published on 10/08/14

Stonelight Pictures today introduces One Handed Keyboard 1.0, its new custom keyboard extension for iOS 8 supported devices. Typing with one hand on the iPhone 6 Plus can be challenging, if not impossible for some people since the screen is too large to reach with just your thumb. One Handed Keyboard allows you to easily type with one hand on the iPhone 6 Plus. It is specifically designed to have the same size keyboard as the previous keyboards used to in the iPhone 5s/5 or iPhone 4s/4.

Calgary, Canada - Stonelight Pictures today is proud to announce the release of One Handed Keyboard 1.0, its new custom keyboard extension for iOS 8 supported devices. Typing with one hand is a daily occurrence, unfortunately typing with one hand on the iPhone 6 Plus is not easy. One Handed Keyboard is designed to bring the keyboard size from the previous size generation iPhones to the iPhone 6 Plus. Left and right handed people can both use the keyboard, or switch hands without having to change any settings. Auto-correct is integrated into the keyboard and waiting on Apple approval, this update should be released this week.

Customize the color to match the wallpaper or case on the phone, change it with a swipe of the finger within the app. Translucent views give a sense of context when you are typing. Dark themes appear where needed, such as in Spotlight search, and light themes automatically appear in applications that have a light background so you can always see the keyboard clearly. The keyboard works system-wide in all applications, and can be purchased on the App Store.
