New York, New York - Noodlesoft today is proud to announce the availability of Hazel 2.3.2 for Mac OS X. Hazel 2.3.2 adds support for Apple's upcoming Mac OS X 10.6 "Snow Leopard". This includes full support for 64-bit mode on hardware that supports it. In addition, this update provides numerous bug fixes and improvements.

With Snow Leopard compability, Hazel can now load properly into System Preferences on 10.6, including loading natively in 64-bit mode on systems that support that architecture. Note that 64-bit support extends beyond the user interface as all background processing is handled in 64-bit as well.

Hazel 2.3.2 is a free upgrade for existing registered users. It is recommended that all users update in advance of Snow Leopard's imminent release. Tiger and Leopard users should upgrade as well as this release features several key fixes and enhancements.
