

Mac Tablet is already a prize in a German Sweepstake

Published on 09/18/09

Berlin based Regman is giving away the rumored Mac Tablet in a sweepstake among twitter followers. Every new follower is a sweepstakes entry. Followers must retweet a text found in the news section of Regman to participate. Regman has also formed a partnership with GRAVIS, the biggest Apple retailer in Germany to exchange data about property from their customers. Every GRAVIS customer can register their products within the buying process.

Berlin, Germany - Regman is giving away the rumored Mac Tablet in a sweepstake among twitter followers. Every new follower is a sweepstakes entry. Followers must retweet a text found in the news section of Regman to participate. Regman has also formed a partnership with GRAVIS, the biggest Apple retailer in Germany to exchange data about property from their customers. Every GRAVIS customer can register their products within the buying process.

"We strongly believe that Apple Inc. will show us the rumored Mac Tablet in the first product presentation next year - so we take the risk to offer a prize that is not available yet", says Heiko Pohlmann, CEO and founder of the Berlin (Germany) based startup. If Apple contrary to expectations not presents the tablet, the winner will obtain whatever else will be presented next January - worth up to 1500 Euro (approx. $2200).

The Regman property recovery service differs from other competitors because the concept already integrates other data sources e.g. local police data. More than 100 databases are checked with every inquiry. Since launch in december 2008 Regman has stored more than 43,000 entries in its own database. Due to the strong partnership with GRAVIS Regman is very popular among Macintosh users in the German market. Other German speaking countries are future target markets. New cooperations with insurance companies will broaden the business activities.
