Locolist Inc. releases Locolist - Your Campus Marketplace 2.1, an update to its social networking app for iOS and Android devices. Locolist is a private and secure app enabling students to easily buy or sell products & services to each other on campus. Students can find a roommate, sublet their apartment, buy or sell textbooks, electronics, class-notes, tickets & furniture - anything students use at college. Featuring streamlined navigation, version 2.1 introduces new Amazon Trade-in features.

Campbell, California - Locolist, "Your Campus Craigslist," is excited to announce the launch of its app featuring Amazon Trade-In. Revolving around the community commerce concept, Locolist is a private and secure app enabling students to easily buy or sell products and services to each other on campus. The app can be used by students to find a roommate, sublet their apartment, and buy or sell textbooks, electronics, class-notes, tickets, and furniture - anything students use at college.

In addition to the peer-to-peer marketplace, Locolist is proud to partner with Amazon to give students the option of trading-in/selling their textbooks directly to Amazon. It is well known that campus bookstores give students pennies on the dollar for their used books. Now, with Amazon Trade-In, students can get a much higher price for their textbooks. Including textbooks, over one million CD/DVD's, games, and consumer electronics items are trade-in eligible.

College students are always looking for ways to save money during the school year, and Locolist is revolutionizing the way students connect to buy and sell on campus. The app's goal is to make it easy and safe for students to meet and complete a transaction.

To ensure student safety, Locolist requires students to create an account using their college .edu email address. Accounts are only activated after the student logs in and verifies their email address. An in-app messaging feature facilitates direct communication between buyers and sellers.
