

TSpeaker is a Complete new iOS Text-to-Speech App Users Will Love to Use

Published on 11/06/15

Duo-Pisces announces TSpeaker 1.0 for iOS devices, a text-to-speech app which can speak out loud any text in all the languages an iOS device supports. The text length can be either a short sentence or a lengthy story. For a short sentence, it is good for learning to speak foreign languages. For the lengthy text, TSpeaker can be used as a story reader when the story file can be loaded into TSpeaker by an email attachment. Furthermore, TSpeaker will highlight each word currently being spoken.

Rochester, New York - Duo-Pisces today is pleased to announce the release of TSpeaker 1.0 for iOS devices. TSpeaker is a text-to-speech app which can speak out loud any text in all the languages that iOS devices support. The text length can be either a short sentence or a lengthy story. For a short sentence, it is good for learning to speak foreign languages. For the lengthy text, TSpeaker can be used as a story reader when the story file can be loaded into TSpeaker by an email attachment.

Furthermore, TSpeaker will highlight each word currently being spoken so that it is easier for a user to learn the language. The voice of the speaker can also be personalized such as the speed, pitch and volume.

"With TSpeaker, learning to speak foreign languages is fun, and it has also limited intelligence to speak different languages in the same paragraph such as a paragraph with mixed English and other language when the device is set in that language." explained Christine Wang, the co-founder of Duo-Pisces.
