

AppsMoment Application Builder Launches Its 2.0 Version

Published on 11/17/15

AppsMoment today launches the 2.0 version of its popular builder application. AppsMoment was launched to make the process of creating mobile apps straightforward and clear so that people without coding knowledge could use it. This version allows anyone to create apps in more than 10 languages. The new dashboard offers better visualisation and makes the process of creating apps even more simple and fast. Users now can create iOS, Android and HTML5 app simultaneously and so much more.

Ternopil, Ukraine - AppsMoment today launches the 2.0 version of its popular builder application. This version allows anyone to create apps in more than 10 languages. The new dashboard offers better visualisation and makes the process of creating apps even more simple and fast. Users now can create iOS, Android and HTML5 app simultaneously and choose whether to publish an app via AppsMoment's dev account or request a source file.

With more than 10 interface languages, AppsMoment helps developers to address target audiences in their native languages.

The new dashboard helps to create an app in 5 easy steps: design, colours, features, application and publication. Each step now offers more flexibility in creating user-friendly, sophisticated apps.

Now it is possible to choose from 12 types of menu layouts, change backgrounds, fonts and to see the result on the various types of OS: iPhone 5 or 6, Android, HTML5.

AppsMoment's users can publish their apps within their paid plans. Now the process of publishing apps becomes even faster.

After a user completes to create an app he/she fills in a simple form with an apps name, description, keywords and chooses a category. Here the developer chooses where he wants to monetize his app and show banners. If the user wants to publish an app himself he can request a source file and it will be sent to his email within 48 hours.

If a developer wants to create an app both for Android and iPhone, in a new version they should undertake a process of creation only once. The dashboard shows the preview of an app on each device.

"We've streamlined the process of releasing a new version and dedicated it to our 3d anniversary. Our current users can evaluate the new dashboard for absolutely free. This version is a new level of user experience proving our mission to be the number one platform for not-techies"- said Maksym Vysochanskiy, the founder of AppsMoment.
