Published on 11/24/15

Kimico Ltd. today announces MusicBuddy 7.6.0, a powerful music management app designed specifically for iPhone and iPod touch. MusicBuddy offers everyone full control of their music catalog directly from their iPhone device. Users can build their entire music library by scanning the barcodes printed on their albums. No additional desktop application or online service is required. With this release, users can access their entire music catalog anywhere using their iPhone or iPod touch.

Herzeliya, Israel - Kimico Ltd., a leading provider of high quality applications for iPhone and iPod touch, today proudly announces the release and immediate availability of MusicBuddy 7.6.0, a powerful music management application. MusicBuddy is designed specifically for the iPhone and iPod touch to give users full control of their music catalog directly on their iPhone device. No additional desktop application or online service is required. With this release, users can access their entire music catalog anywhere using their iPhone or iPod touch.

MusicBuddy is built on the same infrastructure as its sister apps BookBuddy and MovieBuddy, providing a rich set of features, right from its initial launch. MusicBuddy users can build their entire music library by scanning the barcodes printed on their albums. This process takes only minutes to complete utilizing the advanced scanning technology integrated into MusicBuddy. Once the library is created, users can personalize it by classifying albums into categories, adding tags, marking favorite albums for quick access, and adding notes for any given album. Users can manage their own wish list, share albums using Facebook and Twitter, and import, export, and back up data online using the popular Dropbox file hosting service.

"Following the huge success of BookBuddy and MovieBuddy, we decided to create MusicBuddy with the same powerful features," said Mr. Yoash Adato, President and Founder of Kimico, Ltd. "Music collectors and fans can now instantly scan their entire music library into MusicBuddy using the built-in scanner, view complete album information, watch related online videos on Youtube, explore additional album info at Discogs, and ensure they never lose track of loaned albums."

Pricing and Availability:

MusicBuddy Pro 7.6.0 is $4.99 USD (or equivalent amount in other currencies) and is available worldwide exclusively through the App Store. MusicBuddy 7.6.0 (50 album storage limit) is available free. Review copies are available on request.
