The app is for anyone who receives tons of emails, has an overcrowded inbox, and finds it difficult to stay on top of their emails in order to achieve Inbox Zero. Version 2.0 brings support for major email service providers, as well as support for iOS 9 and latest Apple Devices. Users also have the ability to add and track multiple accounts with up to 3 widgets.

Pune, India - Independent developer, Rajesh Varadharajan today is proud to announce the release of eMail Widget 2 (v2.0), a major update to his popular Notification Center Widget for iOS devices. The app is for anyone who receives tons of emails, has an overcrowded inbox, and finds it difficult to stay on top of their emails in order to achieve Inbox Zero. Users can Archive an email, Mark an email as Read, Report Spam, and Delete emails with a single tap, all in the convenience of the iOS Notification Center.

Differentiating features include no need to open any Mail app for performing simple actions. The widget can be accessed from any app or even the Lock screen with just a swipe of a finger. Unique first ever Today Widget for Emails. All of the latest unread mails are served right to the iOS Notification Center. This means that users can easily keep track of all their latest emails and perform actions from any app or even the Lock screen, with just a swipe of a finger.

The latest update brings support for major email service providers like Gmail, Yahoo!, Outlook, Hotmail, iCloud, Office 365, GMX & Google Apps, as well as support for iOS 9 and latest Apple Devices. Users also have the ability to add and track multiple accounts with up to 3 widgets in the Notification Center.

Previously, eMail Widget has been praised by popular App blogs like BGR, AppAdvice, iDownloadBlog, RedmondPie, GuidingTech, PhoneArena, iCulture.nl, iSpazio, Spanish & Russian blogs and more. The app also reached top ranks in United States, Netherlands, Canada's Productivity category as well as in many other countries.
