

MailButler Upgrades Apple Mail Signatures and Makes Them Mobile-Friendly

Published on 07/07/16

Berlin based developer, Feingeist Software GmbH announces MailButler 6303, the next update to their productivity boosting add-on for Apple Mail. With its various functions, MailButler simplifies, optimizes and streamlines working with emails in one's daily life. Version 6303 has improved email signatures, which are now responsive and can be viewed easily on mobile devices. Also, new information fields and social links have been added to all MailButler signature templates.

Berlin, Germany - Feingeist Software GmbH has released a new update to MailButler, its productivity boosting add-on for Apple Mail. MailButler 6303 has improved its email signatures, which is one of the eleven features that it adds to Apple's Mail application. MailButler signatures are now responsive and can be viewed easily on mobile devices.

This small adjustment makes a great difference, if you think that at least half of all the emails are being opened on mobiles. This way Feingeist, MailButler's developer company, wants to emphasize its intention to stay mobile-friendly. In addition to this, the users can now enjoy the expanded range of information fields and social links that they can attach to any of the signature templates they chose.

MailButler is a personal assistant for efficient and productive work with Apple Mail. With its various functions, it simplifies, optimizes and streamlines working with emails in one's daily life. MailButler already offers such features as:

- * Email Tracking: allows you to know if the recipient has actually opened your email
- * Email Scheduling: lets you schedule your emails to be sent at a specific date and time in the future
- * Emails To Notes: allows you to easily convert your emails into notes
- * Upload to Cloud: allows you to effortlessly send attachments independent of their size

The developers at Feingeist Software promise that more new features are planned and will be added to MailButler in future.
