

Super Ricochet for iOS is here - That Final Ricochet Experience

Published on 11/07/16

Texas based Appdore, LLC is announcing their final project, Super Ricochet. Super Ricochet, is the sequel to Ricochet Theory, will challenge players to an intense ricochet contest in order to advance through the game. Unlike Ricochet Theory 1 & 2, platforms are now movable, draggable, spinnable and totally in the players control more than ever. Super Ricochet features over 100 levels and has a silly unlockable mode for the hardcore ricochet fans.

Houston, Texas - Appdore, LLC today is sad yet proud to announce the release and immediate availability of their final project, Super Ricochet. This game is based off the fun and exciting aspect of ricocheting and will be exclusive for the iPhone, iPad and iPod touch devices. The controls are easier and more reliable this time around as players can drag around most objects or double tap to spin the objects 30 degrees at a time. This game is great for players of all ages, especially the physics puzzle game fans. When playing the game, players should feel accomplished when they are able to collect all 3 crystals on a level.

Super Ricochet features 100+ levels of ambient music with minimalistic graphics and simple gameplay. As you advance through this game, you'll have to decide if you want to spend a few minutes trying to get all 3 crystals and the goal or just hit the goal. Of course, there will be many new random elements thrown at players to make things interesting and a little frustrating. There are no timers in these levels or in this game. Super Ricochet will leave players feeling accomplished if they successfully reach level 100. This game is based on realistic physics but players will have the opportunity to experience the game with a more relaxed physics experience after unlocking the new mode on level 100.

That is it and we hope you enjoy our last project.
