London based indie developer, Peter de Vries today announces A Travel Companion 1.2, an update to the popular travel app developed exclusively for iPhone, iPad and iPod touch devices. Make new friends, share costs and travel more. A Travel Companion matches travellers with similar destination plans and preferences, before the journey starts and at the destination itself. Version 1.2 offers many performance improvements, minor bug fixes and has an anonymous login mode.

London, United Kingdom - Independent developer, Peter de Vries today is proud to announce the release and immediate availability of A Travel Companion 1.2, an update to the popular travel app developed exclusively for iPhone, iPad and iPod touch devices. A Travel Companion matches travellers with similar destination plans and preferences, before the journey starts and at the destination itself. Holidaymakers who want to meet up with a like-minded traveller to go for a drink, enjoy a meal and visit a local attraction or to share the next part of the journey, can use the updated app to make new friends, share costs and travel more.

A Travel Companion is easy and intuitive to use; you set your travel date and destination and answer a few questions about what you like. Then just check the profile of other travellers, chat, follow, meet up and go. Users log in with their email, Facebook or can use the anonymous mode and can contribute to the news feed with the latest travel news.

"While travelling myself, there were certain journeys I did not feel comfortable doing on my own," explained Peter de Vries, founder and CEO. "Sometimes I met people to travel with, other times I didn't and had to skip parts of the trip. Six years ago I was in Venezuela, wanted to hike the Roraima ('lost world'), but didn't find anyone to share the trip and cost of a guide. This experience is behind the idea to develop A Travel Companion with integrated chat capabilities."

There are plans for A Travel Companion on Android and a browser version. Version 1.2 offers many performance improvements, minor bug fixes and has an anonymous login mode. The app is even more focussed on the destination, so you can check in and see who is around you. There are more profile options (backpacker, digital nomad, business traveller), further activity preferences and a 'quick update' 3 hour activity (diner, beer, beach, hiking, working, ...)
