

As Flu Levels Peak, New US Flu Fighter App Released

Published on 03/14/17

Raaza Limited today announces US Flu Fighter 2.0, a feature update to their popular health based app for iOS devices. US Flu Fighter provides up-to-the-minute info on the level of flu activity across the United States. The most recent flu updates and published material from the CDC are included in the app and updated regularly to ensure that you'll always be in-the-know. Featuring a totally overhauled UI, version 2.0 offers more tips as well as various bug fixes and performance improvements.

London, United Kingdom - With the CDC just announcing that Flu has reached peak levels in the USA, a brand new version of the US Flu Fighter app has been launched to help combat the disease. Making use of data provided by the CDC, the US Flu Fighter app by raaza can help protect you from one of the planet's most infectious diseases. The app provides up-to-the-minute information on the level of flu activity across the United States, helping to inform you wherever you're going in the USA.

From the latest Center for Disease Control advisories by state, to a flu activity heat map of the entire USA, Flu Fighter has got it covered. The app provides detailed information by state, so that you can consider the flu activity history of wherever you'll be. The most recent flu updates and published material from the CDC are also included in the app and updated regularly to ensure that you'll always be in-the-know.

"The CDC is forward-thinking enough to provide a host of up-to-the-minute data via their web platform, and the US Flu Fighter app brings that data straight to your iPhone in the easily digestible format of an app" said Richard Rauser, director of raaza.
