

All N 1 productivity app is a Multi-Functional Appointment Scheduler

Published on 10/30/17

Alabama based developer, ALL N 1 APPS releases ALL N 1, a maintenance update to their popular business app for iOS and Android devices. Easy, fast and intuitive, ALL N 1 was designed to help individuals and businesses regain control of their day and stay organized. It is a next generation multi-functional scheduler that integrates customer tracking, employee tracking and promotions. Users can also track total earnings, and generate reports that can be emailed. Version 1.7 fixes minor bugs.

Huntsville, Alabama - As life gets busier and more complicated, individuals and businesses alike need innovative tools to get the most out of each day - which means that conventional scheduling apps are out, and brilliant new solutions like All N 1 are in. All N 1 is a next generation multi-functional scheduler that integrates customer tracking, employee tracking and promotions. Users can also track total earnings (weekly, monthly and yearly), and generate reports that can be emailed.

Using All N 1 is easy, fast and intuitive. For example, to add client services users select a service category from the drop-down menu: food & drink; services; retail; entertainment; beauty & fashion; or health and fitness. Next, they simply enter the service name, client name, cost of the service, and select the employee who will complete it.

Adding an appointment is just as easy: users choose a service, select a date and time, and add a new or existing customer. The appointment automatically shows up on the home screen. Toggling existing customers and employees as "inactive" is also simple and fast, and avoids having to permanently delete them from the app's database just in case they re-enter the picture later on, or if their contact information might be required down the road.

"All N 1 is powerful and filled with features, but it's also very easy to use," commented Kesha Brown of ALL N 1 APPS. "It's designed to help individuals and businesses regain control of their day, stay organized, and make the most of their limited time."
