New York, New York - MacFly Pro is happy to announce its first major rebrand. The changes touch upon the company's logo, functions, and website. A laptop with a gear-shaped blue infinity sign on the screen is replacing an old flying bird, finding duplicates in iTunes and Photos is now available, and the website is getting more informative. The improvements are intended to make MacFly Pro a more capable cleaning utility that best fits users' needs.

Let's have a closer look at upcoming transformations!

Waving goodbye to the bird logo. MacFly Pro's flying bird made way for the laptop displaying gear-shaped blue infinity sign. The new logo emphasizes that only the sky is the limit, and the team is ready to jet up until the products are perfect. "It's just where great changes start. We aren't going to stop on achieved. Nor will we ever be content with what we have. It's a mission of our company to make truly incredible yet affordable utilities for Mac users. And it'll always inspire us to keep moving forward" says Tomasz Jesko, the product manager of New York based MacFly Pro LLC. New MacFly Pro logo reminds the users that the app they have now will be evolving day after day.

Enjoying new features. With sky-blue logo at heart, MacFly Pro team made the next step on the way to creating a great utility. From now on, the app is able to find and delete duplicates in iTunes and Photos. It lets users say goodbye to identical photos clogging hard drive and the same songs playing so many times. As before, users only need to make a single click to see new features in action. The extended functional no way makes the app heavier for the system. It has always been and will always remain lightweight.

Having needed info at hand thanks to the new website. The upcoming changes are now reflected in MacFly Pro website. Old version with multiple tabs and piles of text is now replaced with an elegant and simple design. 'Less words and more sense' approach is felt right from the first lines. The website got a better navigation, while the users may learn about the app's key features by casting a glance at the first page.

MacFly Pro promises never to stop improving its cleaning utility. Current users already got the updated app with extended functions, new logo, and enhanced website design. While for others, this may be the best time to try it out. MacFly Pro's rebranded version is now available on the official website.
