

21 Years In the Making: All-New PowerOne Calculator Solves Your Problems

Published on 02/13/18

Today Infinity Softworks celebrates 21 years in business by re-launching PowerOne, its flagship software calculator for iOS. PowerOne focuses on quickly and accurately performing repetitive calculations, a critical function for businesses ranging from finance, banking and investing to sales, construction and engineering. The app turns calculations into mini-spreadsheets, called templates, that function on any desktop and mobile browser or in the iPhone and iPad application released today.

Portland, Oregon - Today Infinity Softworks celebrates 21 years in business by re-launching its flagship software calculator, PowerOne(R). PowerOne is a different kind of calculator that focuses on quickly and accurately performing repetitive calculations, a critical function for businesses ranging from finance, banking and investing to sales, construction and engineering.

Elia Freedman, Infinity Softworks' founder and CEO, said, "This release is the culmination of a five year process where we tore PowerOne down to the studs and rebuilt the entire product as a web and mobile service. I am so happy to be releasing this critical application and know our customers will love it!"

PowerOne focuses on quickly performing repetitive calculations error-free. These calculations are needed by workers in the field to accurately predict materials, loans and leases, or margins on sales, for example.

PowerOne turns calculations into mini-spreadsheets, called templates, that function on any desktop and mobile browser or in the iPhone and iPad application released today.

There are over one hundred pre-created templates available for industries including finance, banking, sales, construction, investing, business, engineering and more. In addition, customers can create and share their own templates.

Device Requirements:

- * iPhone, iPad and iPod touch
- * Requires iOS 10.3 or later
- * 6.4 MB

Pricing and Availability:

PowerOne 5.0.1 is free to use on the web and iOS devices, including access to over one hundred pre-created templates, the ability to create your own templates, synchronize across your devices, and utilize a full-featured standard and RPN calculator on iOS devices.
