Amsterdam, Netherlands - Momenta B.V. today is proud to announce the imminent release of Agenda for iOS on Tuesday, May 29th, 2018. It is currently available for preorder in the App Store. The launch follows a successful launch of Agenda for macOS in January. The macOS edition of the app has been featured on the front page of the Mac App Store ever since.

Like Agenda for macOS, the iOS edition is a date-focused note taking app for planning and documenting projects. It syncs up with Agenda for macOS via iCloud almost instantly.

Designed with serious note takers in mind, from business professionals and technical users, to students and artists, Agenda is for anyone who needs well organized and easily navigable notes to drive a project forward.

By grouping notes for each project into a timeline, it is easier to plan for the future, and refer back to past decisions. Notes can be manually ordered in the timeline, or given a date - they can even be coupled to events in the Calendar app.

Agenda features a clean and crisp minimalistic design, which puts the focus on note content. Styled text leads to consistent and attractive documents which feel as if printed on paper. The text editor is very powerful, with support for headings, lists (including checklists), tags and indentation.

Agenda's sales model is quite unique. The app itself is free, with no time limits. There are extra premium features which require an In-App Purchase to unlock. When an upgrade pack is purchased, all current features are permanently unlocked across all Macs. In addition, any features added to Agenda in the 12 months following the purchase are included, and permanently unlocked as well.

With the introduction of the iOS app, there are now two price levels. Customers can unlock premium features only on iOS devices for $9.99, or unlock features across both iOS and macOS for $24.99 (USD).
