Long Island, New York - Mobile app review publisher AlphaDigits has named top rated applications for September 2018. AlphaDigits names five top class mobile apps every month based on the reviews published in the website during the particular month. This website has now released the names of top rated mobile apps for the month of September.

TakeLessons Live (10/10): There is a basic set of subjects whose classes are free in TakeLessons. You can take piano, guitar and singing lessons, or American Sign Language, French and Spanish. Once you choose a subject, you will see a list of different class times and teachers from which to choose. All you have to do is browse through them and see which time fits into your schedule and which teacher seems to fit you best.

Fibler (9.5/10): Fibler brings together a community of experts from all sorts of subject matter and areas of interest. As a provider of advice and information, all you do is create profile and set your rates. Rates will be for basic phones calls, video conferencing and chat sessions. You can set your own pricing for each type of communication; and, if you are not sure where to start, you can always search the community for what others charge based on their time providing services on the app and level of expertise in that subject.

Stellar Patrol (9/10): This is a great game that has a lot of potentials. Stellar Patrol can impress players who are familiar with space sims. Players can register which allows them to then rank on various levels in comparison to other players. Cargo can be found, mined from asteroids, looted from wrecked ships, and bought and sold at different planets and bases as part of a galaxy wide trading system.

KlikIt (8.5/10): The game is easy to play and allows for the player to play with up to 3 other players. When playing with others your game board will be displayed framed by smaller icons representing how the other players are doing, to help keep you motivated. The key is to gather as many coins from the game board as possible. The player who collects the most coins wins the game, but the final decision comes during the Wheel of Fortune.

Cabstr (8/10): Download Cabstr and see how easy it is to find a ride fast. The app is free and it is very easy to use. All you need to provide is either an email address or a mobile number. It asks you to confirm app install using a code it will send you, and then you are all set. All you have to do is punch in your destination and Cabstr will then list all ride options for you in an easy to read format.

Joe Ellen, an Editor at AlphaDigits said, "We can promote iPhone and Android apps to gain any number of installs and reviews." Developers can also contact AlphaDigits through the onsite form, mail or the contact form to get their apps reviewed.
