

Cisdem Mac Video Converter Supports More Sites for Download Function

Published on 01/10/19

Cisdem has upgraded Cisdem Video Converter for Mac to version 3.11.0. The update brings more supported sites to the app's online video download function and fixes a couple of issues. The main functions of Cisdem Video Converter for Mac include video conversion, video download, video compression, DVD ripping and basic video editing. Users can use it to download SD, 1080p HD and 4K Ultra HD videos from YouTube, Facebook, Twitter, Vimeo, Reddit, Dailymotion and more than 1,000 other sites.

Madelia, Minnesota - Cisdem has upgraded Cisdem Video Converter for Mac to version 3.11.0. This Mac video converter can already download videos from more than 1000 websites including YouTube, and this upgrade adds more supported sites to the download function.

The main functions of Cisdem Video Converter for Mac include video conversion, video download, video compression, DVD ripping and basic video editing. Users can use it to download SD, 1080p HD and 4K Ultra HD videos from YouTube, Facebook, Twitter, Vimeo, Reddit, Dailymotion and more than 1000 other sites. It is compatible with OS X 10.10 Yosemite and later, including macOS 10.14 Mojave.

"Cisdem Video Converter is more than just an excellent video converter," said Edward Riley, Cisdem's project manager. "The powerful video download function is what makes it stand out among a sea of similar software. The older versions can already download videos from over 1000 sites, including all popular video sites and social media sites. This upgrade adds even more supported sites. Users can also convert the downloaded videos to any video or audio formats they need. It's convenient. "

What's New in Version 3.11.0
