

Mac Bundle Box launches Mac Daily Box - A Deal-A-Day on Mac Software

Published on 11/02/09

Mac Bundle Box today launched Mac Daily Box, a new sister site to its unique quarterly software promotions bundle. Mac Daily Box is a Deal-A-Day on Mac Software. Every day at midnight, a new application will be posted to Mac Daily Box at a heavily discounted price. It will remain discounted for twenty-four hours until the next promotion is published on the website. Mac Bundle Box will continue to do its discount bundle promotions, but on a less frequent basis.

Corby, UK - Mac Bundle Box, the popular Macintosh software promotion company that specialising its unique quarterly software promotions in the form of discount bundles of various applications, has today launched its sister site, Mac Daily Box. Mac Daily Box is a Deal A Day on Mac Software. Every day at midnight (PDT) a new application will be posted to the Mac Daily Box site at a heavily discounted price, it will remain discounted for twenty four hours until the next promotion is published on the website. Mac Bundle Box will continue to do its discount bundle promotions, but on a less frequent basis.

Users can visit the site now to take a look at todays discount application. On the site users will also find a subscription box, where they can subscribe and be emailed on a daily basis about the days promotion. These are the first to get notified about new promotions and deals that we are offering.

Pricing and Availability:

Applications in Mac Daily Box promotions are often discounted fifty percent and higher off of their recommended retail price, making the promotional prices over at Mac Daily Box some of the lowest around for the included applications. Mac Daily Box promotions are available every day and last 24 hours. Discounted prices will vary between promotions.
