San Diego, California - Good School Tools announced today that School ID Cards and Photos version 4.1.1, which includes information on every student ID for the National and Local Suicide Prevention Hotlines, the Crisis Text Line, and Campus Police, can be used for free for a year. Simply download the app, try it under a no obligation 30 day trial, post a review in the App Store, and let Good School Tools know which review is yours. Good School Tools will send a promo code for a year's free subscription for your school.

Governor Brown of California signed SB 972 (authored by Senator Anthony Portantino) into law in September 2018 to address the increase of student suicides by mandating Suicide Lifeline information be included on every student ID card. This law goes into effect July 1, 2019. Good School Tools has responded by putting the mandated National and Local Suicide Prevention Hotline numbers on every ID card. Good School Tools also includes the Crisis Text Line number, the ability to create a custom link for schools having their own Crisis Line, and local Campus Police contact information.

Tim Walton of Good School Tools said: "We are appalled by the increase in teen suicides. School ID provides the perfect means to impact this problem by providing IDs right on a student's smart phone. We hope students will take advantage of the hotline and crisis information available right on their phones to reach out to the help they need. School ID is already in use in Los Angeles and NYC schools. We are aware that other states have begun legislation to require student IDs and to include Lifeline information on those IDs. School ID is priced at $199/yr/school so that as many schools as possible can benefit from the use of the app. We hope teachers, admins, and even parents take advantage of our free offer so that we may help safeguard our students."
