

PDFpen for iPad & iPhone v5.1 Features Multiple Windows on iPadOS

Published on 10/03/19

Smile, developer of productivity applications for Mac and iOS, releases PDFpen for iPad & iPhone v5.1, an important update to their popular mobile PDF editor for iPad and iPhone today. With PDFpen for iPad & iPhone, users can add text, images, and signatures to PDFs, make corrections, resize and delete images, and fill out forms. PDFs can be annotated with comments and highlighting. Version 5.1 support for multiple windows on iPadOS as well as dark mode, and also adds stationery options.

San Francisco, California - Smile, the developer of productivity applications for Mac(R), iPhone(R) and iPad(R), has released PDFpen for iPad & iPhone v5.1, the mobile PDF editor for iPad & iPhone. Version 5.1 features support for multiple windows on iPadOS as well as dark mode. This version also adds a variety of stationery styles.

Multiple windows on iPad make reading and referencing two different documents, even two spots in the same document--"or accessing another app such as Mail while editing--"much easier. Support for dark mode offers users a popular viewing experience, which is easier on the eyes.

A multitude of stationery styles to choose from allows for more effective note-taking, organization, and customization to suit a variety of PDF annotating needs. PDFpen for iPad & iPhone syncs documents with PDFpen and PDFpenPro 11 for Mac via iCloud, Google Drive, Microsoft OneNote, and other Files-compatible apps for seamless PDF editing.

New in this version:

- * Adds multiple windows (iPadOS)
