Econ Technologies announced that ChronoSync and ChronoAgent are updated for macOS Catalina. ChronoSync now recognizes APFS Volume Groups so you can create Bootable Backups of Catalina! This required extensive development and testing to ensure continued reliable backups for our customers ready to transition from Mojave to Catalina. ChronoSync is the complete sync, backup, and bootable backup app for the Mac. ChronoAgent runs on the destination Mac providing a direct connection to ChronoSync.

Casselberry, Florida - ChronoSync 4.9.5 and ChronoAgent 1.9.3 are updated for macOS 10.15, "Catalina"! This is not just any old maintenance release. ChronoSync now recognizes APFS Volume Groups so you can create Bootable Backups of Catalina! This required extensive development and testing to ensure continued reliable backups for our customers ready to transition from Mojave to Catalina.

"I challenged our Engineers to make macOS 10.15 backups as easy as ever despite the extensive file system changes in Catalina. The result is a reliable tool ready for the future of macOS.", said Duilio Proni, President of Econ Technologies, Inc. He added, "The Bootable Backup Setup Assistant is a demonstration of how we can take a complicated task and walk our customers through the steps to create a full bootable backup of Catalina!"

As Mac users transition to Catalina, there are always questions and uncertainty. We've published the 'Catalina Update Tech Note' to help our customers ensure their Mojave backup is safe, make the transition to Catalina, and answer common questions encountered along the way.

ChronoSync 4.9.5 includes a long list of bug fixes, enhanced reliability and improved performance. Along with ChronoSync 4.9.5, ChronoAgent 1.9.3 has undergone similar changes to support Mac-to-Mac syncing and backup on Catalina.

Owners of ChronoSync can install the update immediately for free! Owners of ChronoAgent have the same deal, they can install the update immediately for free! If you don't already own ChronoSync or ChronoAgent, download the Apps today and start the 15-day free trial to learn how ChronoSync with ChronoAgent is your best long-term backup investment for Mac.

ChronoSync, the multipurpose Mac App for local and cloud backup, bootable backup and folder synchronizing is designed to work on macOS version 10.11 and newer.
