Diego Resnik announces iCarMode 5th major release, an update to his popular productivity app for iOS devices. iCarMode contains the major features needed to ease & improve your iPhone-Car experience. iCarMode features large buttons allowing easy and safe access to music, shortcut for dialling, preferred GPS app as well as other car & driving related functionality. iCarMode 5 now includes Spotify integration allowing you to play your favourite music from your Spotify library, just a tap away.

Herzlyia, Israel - Indie developer, Diego Resnik today is proud to announce the 5th major release of iCarMode, an update to his popular productivity app developed for iOS devices. iCarMode now includes integration with Spotify allowing you to play your favourite music right from your Spotify library & recommendations, just a tap away. Allowing safer use of any mounted iPhone with minimum distraction, iCarMode features large buttons that allow easy and safe access to music, shortcut for dialling, preferred navigation app as well as other car and driving related functionality.

The new version adds integration with Spotify, you can easily tap to play your favourite music right from iCarMode's music player. It also integrates to both Spotify & Apple Music's AI allowing you to explore and play recommended music suited to match your taste in music.

This version also adds a built-in and long waiting radio player & support for the new iOS 13 dark-mode.

These new features comes in addition to previous versions capabilities like music player control, turn by turn navigation, easy access to external navigation app, quick dial-up to favorite contacts, "where did I park?" to find your parking spot, find places of interest nearby, shortcuts to favorite apps and many more.

And all in its big buttoned user interface design suited for in-car use with minimum distraction.
