

Enjoy Your Dates Better with this Interest-Based Dating App

Published on 12/12/19

Dallas based YeahWeKhan, LLC releases Twoish 1.1, a minor update to its popular dating app for iOS and Android devices. Twoish was developed exclusively for matching people based on their interests and hobbies. The app enables users to find nearby events and invite others who are interested in the same events. For those who aren't looking for love or dating, but merely a group to hang out with, there's a separate option enabling friendships between likeminded people in the neighborhood.

Dallas, Texas - YeahWeKhan, LLC is proud to announce the release of Twoish 1.1, a minor update to the company's popular dating app developed for iOS and Android devices. Ever felt tongue-tied on a date? Not because you were smitten, but only because you and your partner had nothing common to do or talk about. That's the pitfall of online dating apps that allow users to swipe right or left based on looks. A few online chats are not enough to reveal someone's personality to ensure a successful date. However, Twoish, the new kid on the dating block, breaks away from the conventional format of dating apps by enabling users to choose each other based on events they'd like to attend in an area.

"In a world where loneliness and depression are growing problems, even those with thousands of online connections find it hard to connect with a partner in the real world. With Twoish, we decided to merge the virtual and the real worlds by creating an event-based app that not only lets you discover what's happening in your vicinity but also someone to attend your favorite events with," says Nazair Khan, Founder, Twoish.

Twoish is a unique dating platform for folks who are tired of swiping right and left to find a like-minded partner to go out with. On the app, you can discover people in your neighborhood who are up for drinks, dinner, karaoke, paintball, movies, and other such events so that you can bond over shared interests.

"It becomes a lot easier to say hi when the other person has similar tastes in activities," adds Mr. Khan, who has designed a separate interface on the app for users not looking for a partner but friends in crime (read, fun!). "The app lets you discover events, people interested in those events, and also lets you create your own events or meetups. You can choose at the outset whether you are looking for a date or a gang of friends, and the app throws up personalized suggestions to meet your criteria."

For those who are tired of the swiping game and are looking for a company in real-time, the Twoish app offers a plethora of features that are perfect to meet up with likeminded people and have some real fun.

Here's what we loved in Twoish app:

- * A curated list of events near you
- * A list of people who share your interests
- * Chat option to invite others who are interested in the same events
- * Option to create your own events and invite others
- * View a list of users who are interested in your meetup
- * Secure and personalized chat option for users
- * Follow other users and mark them as favorites
- * Block jerks and report inappropriate behavior

"We have designed the Twoish app with our users' security in mind. That's why we give them full control over their profile to block jerks and report any inappropriate events and behavior so that we can take action," says Mr. Khan.
