

Furballs! 1.0 released for the iPhone/iPod Touch - Addicting iPhone Game

Published on 11/13/09

Independent game developer Dan Russell-Pinson today announced Furballs! 1.0 for iPhone and iPod Touch. Furballs! is an addictive new game that combines two popular game genres of path-drawing and match three into one package. It features original music, sound effects and over 150 levels of ever increasing difficulty. Using the familiar tap and draw control system, you must guide the colorful furballs through space to make matches.

Charlotte, North Carolina - Dan Russell-Pinson, author of the popular game Block Drop, has just released Furballs!, his second game for the iPhone and iPod Touch. Furballs! is an addictive new iPhone game that combines the two popular game genres of path-drawing and match three into one package. Using the familiar "tap and draw" control system made popular by Flight Control, you must guide the colorful furballs through space to make matches. As you progress, special objects appear such as meteors which can burn furballs, comets which freeze them, wildcard furballs and satellites too.

Furballs! features original music, sound effects and over 150 levels of ever increasing difficulty. The level selection menu allows you to continue playing where you left off or to load already completed levels. Every five levels, you can take a quick break from the action and watch a short furball cartoon. For only 99 cents, Furballs! is a "hard to put down" game which offers hours of entertainment.

Features:

- * Over 150 levels of ever increasing difficulty
- * Original sound effects
- * Level selection menu
- * In-game tutorial
- * High score submission
- * Play your own music
- * Hours and hours of gameplay!

Device Requirements:

- * iPhone or iPod Touch 2.2.1 or later
