VitaMobile has released SpaceClash 1.4 for iPhone and iPod touch. SpaceClash is a multiplayer online game that blurs the border between real life and fantasy. It is the first representative of the new generation of Massively Multiplayer Trans-Reality Games. The innovation of MMTRG is that any number of people can interact with each other, just like they would in real-life Mass Multiplayer games.

Tomsk, Russian Federation - VitaMobile launched SpaceClash game for iPhone and iPod touch.

SpaceClash is a multiplayer online game that blurs the border between real life and fantasy. SpaceClash is the first representative of the new generation of mobile entertainment, known as Massively Multiplayer Trans-Reality Games (MMTRG). The innovation of MMTRG is that any number of people, simultaneously present in one game world, interact with each other, just like they would in real-life Mass Multiplayer games.

In MMTRG the users function in both in the game world and in the real world. The game is played on mobile phones that have GPS module and are connected to Internet and the movements of the characters in the game repeat the movements of the players in the real world. In this respect, Massively Multiplayer Trans-Reality Games are a much healthier choice than traditional mobile and computer games.

SpaceClash is a battle in a future world where all human needs have been satisfied. The only desire that overcomes people brains is the desire to be the best. People jumped in their Shells and flew in the deep space towards this Challenge to become the best. The p run to make their Shell move faster. Innovative and challenging, SpaceClash is ideal for everyone who enjoys new acquaintances and exercise.
