

Open Door Networks and Project A ship 100th Envi app

Published on 12/27/09

Open Door Networks, Inc. and Project A, Inc. announced today that they have now shipped over 100 Web-image browsing "Envi" iPhone apps through the iTunes App Store. The apps let users explore particular subjects of interest in depth, through categorized full-screen slide shows, scrolling image arrays and detailed background information. The Envi app line groups include Art & Architecture, Space, Travel, Fun and Others.

Ashland, Oregon - Open Door Networks, Inc. and Project A, Inc. ("We-Envision") announced today that they have now shipped over 100 Web-image browsing "Envi" iPhone apps through the iTunes App Store. The apps let users explore particular subjects of interest in depth, through categorized full-screen slide shows, scrolling image arrays and detailed background information. The images and information come from key Web sites on the subject. Related subjects can be added through in-app purchasing.

The companies' Envi app line has grown from the original iEnvision Web-image browser, shipped as a first-day app in July, 2008, to a comprehensive set of inexpensive apps divided into five main groups. Pricing ranges from $3.99 to free. As the line has grown, so have its sales, with well over 200,000 apps downloaded to date.

The Envi app line groups include:

Art & Architecture - the top-selling Art Envi and Art Envi Deluxe apps, along with a number of period- and artist-focused apps including Art Envi Origins, Art Envi Renaissance, Art Envi Impressionist, Art Envi Modern, and Van Gogh and Da Vinci Envi. Also Architect Envi and Architect Envi Deluxe.

Space - Space Envi and Space Envi Deluxe, as well as Astronaut, Earth, Mars, Planet and Hubble Envi.

Travel - Parks Envi and Parks Envi Deluxe, a number of regional National Parks apps, and the Michael Brein line of guides to travel by mass transit (Paris, London, Madrid, DC, Hawaii and Chicago Envi)

Fun - Car Envi Deluxe, Moto Envi Deluxe and over two-dozen other make- and period-specific car and motorcycle apps (many with additional "mature audiences" babe versions). Also fashion apps, including Haircut, Handbag, Shoe and Dress Envi. And a whole bunch of other fun, like Ballpark and Rollercoaster Envi.

Others - licensed photography apps, and timely apps such as Hanukkah and Christmas Envi, and the new Decade Review.
